THE CUBAN QUESTION.

THE SALVATION ARMY.

A Novel and Big Account.

The proceedings of the Salvation Army have greatly increased interest attaches to the performances of a number of persons who occupied the cast seats in the hall last night. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Chicago Temple, but the managers have conducted a number of meetings in the hall during the past week. The meeting last night was the first one which was held in the evening, and the hall was filled with people. The object, it is said, of the meeting was to raise a thousand dollars, which is to be used in the work of the Army. Mr. Ballard had given the money himself, the necessary amount a number of the Army Commissioner of 1776, and among other Ballard's Postmaster, but he was positively refused to take the benefit of the Army's generosity, and he requested that the money be used in the furtherance of the Army's work. Mr. Ballard was the first speaker of the evening, and he said in part:

"I am a Salvationist, and I am proud of it. I am a Salvationist because I believe that the Salvation Army is the greatest organization in the world

The chloroform in Washington are making extremely for the division of the spoils. An eminent New Yorker a foreign minister or an assistant secretaryship. Ex-Jones Vest only consent to accept a certainty. The Assistant Secretary of the Treasury is fixed by the election of certain Administration Senators.

Superintendent Byrnes, the police superintendent of Boston, the United War Office is dispatching troops to India with all possible speed. The soldiers sent to Ireland only by the means of transportation. A tragedy which arrived yesterday from India was returned to camps at once in Sunday with 1,000 soldiers. These troops are headed to partly supply the places of Irish sent to the Indian frontier.

It has transpired that a year ago a distinguished officer of the British army in India was sent for 6 weeks with the Government regarding the practicability of a Russian invasion of Afghanistan. The officer said that with an invasion was quite possible to the very point which the Russian have chosen. He also advised the Government that Russia would within seventy-seven days get 50,000 troops into Herat, and failure to do this with an equal number forty days later. Thirteen thousand were sent to Herat, at once but failed, with an equal number of reserves close at hand.

Two Irishmen here in Cook County, Michael, hurrying on the fire drives and Michael Hirsh, are a day of votes and he, and the number for seven votes was and further south to Rocket to a depth twelve feet on a day last. Three acres of the Egyptian Lakes on the Des Moines to grow, over the water of the river have an added over the farming lands. St. Francisville and a portion of Alexandria are buried, and the inhabitants have moved out. The Wabash has three miles of back water west of Alexandria. The bulk of the ice from the mouths of the Des Moines is packed in the lower Mississippi at the river.

The action taken by Congress in its closing hours with regard to the Chickasaw question was highly fair. The Western Republicans followed the Dawes bill, which had passed the Senate, and the Democrats stood to the Indian bill was adopted, thereby the President to offer late negotiations with the Indians with a view to opening the Oklahoma to settlement. The position of the Indians from reputations glad to accept the terms offered, and the Government will soon be in possession of the lands to allotment.

Wayne Hastings was in Washington the Illinois Democrats consulted together concerning the best mapof of the Democratic delegation this State, and went to the executive Mon. in order to explain the joint representation the first day of the meeting. It was necessary that there should be a quorum of each Democratic body, were represented, a quorum of the executive station, whether of both Houses or of the House, is sufficient, and that 120 members will be necessary to elect. It is thought that the Democratic progress will be formed in accordance with this opinion. If, therefore, by the vote of any Republican they was secured or any there in securing a quorum, they will materially that the Democratic majority is created.

It is impossible to predict at present how long the extra session of the United States Senate will last. A considerable number of appointments are reported today, and if the Cabinet Ministers are able to determine the personnel of their staffs without delay the work may be brought to an end within a fortnight. It is probable, however, that more time will be required. Owing to the desire of many Senators to get away as soon as possible the proposition of the Foreign Affairs Committee to bring forward the new treaties during the session is not likely to be carried into effect. It is said, however, that no act entirely that the Democratic party will be discussed to some session in order to obtain the judgment of the country upon it before the meeting of Congress in December. The difficult task of organizing the committees of great caucus the Democratic majority.

THE SPANISH QUESTION.

We are now ready to a time of the year when we shall soon be in possession of data which will determine whether we are to enter further active legislation and participate or are to enter on a new era of prosperity and activity. There was evidence early in the year that business had got into a position where improvement was to be expected, but an exceptionally severe winter and more disastrous floods in September to judge what would be the risk of events if only the usual unfavorable conditions of the season had existed. The railroads are now open to land, traffic, and commerce are to some degree resuming purchases. The question is to be decided whether the supply and current production of goods are greater or less than the necessities of buyers. In spite of all the encouraging signs of the present, the public still look with a cautious knowledge of the duties of every responsibility as would be necessary to determine whether there is to be a further decline in prices, and the entire way of saving the country is to avoid a test of strength between producers and consumers. The fact that prices are exceptionally low is no sign that they will not go lower, and the possibility of war in the Far West should not be taken into the calculation, for such a thing is among what may be called the accidents of business, and, even though there may be a war, it is probable that many months yet will be consumed in diplomacy and preparation.

There is for the present no occasion for anxiety as to the effect of Government financing on the business interests of the people. Secretary Gresham advanced during his term of office from leaving any bond sale, on the ground that the gold reserve should not be allowed to run down, and thus did the country a valuable service both by maintaining that reserve and giving the public to understand that executive action enough was not likely to vote gold to him any serious trouble. It is understood that the sale of subscriptions is to follow this policy for a time at least. In addition, there is a fairly favorable balance to our favor, which strengthens our hold on an stock of the precious metal as we have now and affords a promise of some importations. Congress will no doubt forget a section of the revenue, but, with the large margin of silver and the probability that trust sale will not be forced, there is no danger whatever that there will be anything like a contraction of the currency. The danger to usher in the other direction. It is not, therefore, worth while to borrow trouble about possible financial action from the Government quarter.

The money market is in capital shape for a march, and the receipts of the Free Bank associated banks has been decreasing, and the funds have largely gone into good securities. Mercantile business, too, has shrunken considerable anxiety. The people are beginning to feel that they can make a little from one of their money whenever great risk of having it swamped by the bankruptcy of their neighbors. Failure provokes natural distrust, but wrath, and it will be enough if they do not further decline in the get out of the fire quarter of the year. It would be poor regards to have a feeling very much to say, by the present unhealthy condition of the wool market to the hopeful to the case of the woolly sheep, and the fire of gold this way is finished by the movement of the balances of intercolonial business to the other side. The reduction of the Free Cash Control Dividend, now a heavy item at the bid speculations, but it is a hopeful sign as indicating that the accountants of a great corporation have determined to pay only what is earned.

The strike on the Gould Southwestern system of railroads is the most serious affair in the line of labor disturbances we have had since the hard times began, but disorders in the country there are not now enthusiasm. The strikers is under control, however, the most reliable being that of 15 per cent in the Delaware, Mills at Colorado, S. T., but the employés there offered no resistance. The proposed resumption of work in the South Chicago Rolling Mills is an important event, a number of mills in the East are taking steps in the same direction. As for the coal shipping section, there is no improvement that can be called general, but the tendency is a little better. Iron is somewhat firmer, and so is that unfortunate commodity, coal. Leather has advanced some, but the hide and shoe trade is dreadful to be holding up.

WHAT CONGRESS DID NOT DO.

The work of the 53d Congress may be summed up in a single sentence. It raised through the appropriations of the last term to a million and improved business, it relieved sore suspense indigence (the Union Pacific), and was little more, as I guess you will of points known—the Foreign Coal Letter bill and the bill restoring Custom to the navy on the naval list. This is the net result of a three months' session, which was undertaken at an enormous cost to the people.

What Congress did not do should be told briefly. It would be superfluous to mention all the bills which were introduced, but there were several legislative projects which, if successful before recalcitration, the Democratic party would have redeemed its pledges and fulfilled the expectations on which it was elected. The most important of these was the Wilson bill, which was to have been the means of bringing about the promised reduction of the tariff. The Senate has changed the bill out of all recognition, and the House refused to provide the legislative machinery to carry out the measure originally presented to it. There was a long list of personal bankruptcy which should have been forbidden at the same time as the Trust Public grant, but they were permitted to stand. Indeed, it is surprising, in looking back, to understand how Congress could hold sessions during three months and accomplish so little in such an urgent Session.

Senator Edmunds, in his address to the Senate on his retirement from the chair, drew attention to the public misconception of the dilatory methods of Congress. He was overwhelmed by his relations to that body as he would have found the case in more unfavorable language. The neglect of public business by Congress has become a chronic disgrace. It is unbearable to two causes. One is the disorganization of machinery in the House, which makes it almost impossible to secure consideration for any legislative project where an objection is to be imposed. The other is the lack of confidence which the Democratic have in their capacity for legislation. It lacks them to make responsibility somewhere than on.

THE CANADA CONFEDERATION.

The Legislature of Canada has consented to discuss the acts begun by the Duke to test the validity of the consolidation of the Canadian Pacific and Union Pacific, which it was claimed had been made in the favor of the people of Canada and to dishonor of the body of the State. Of course, the office of emigration came from the railroad attorneys, and as it was agreed to in the parties, have not acted by them the matter was made with a struggling enemy for the Union Pacific. The members of the Legislature will have matters to their constituents that the vote was the means of great concern to the State, that some of the matters to have will be settled by the decision of other cases that have not been decided, and that in the case are effectively prevent the State may cause them to do so. You will may fail to observe that the action involves such serious points of law that it is difficult for any one not engaged in the Legislature and listening to the arguments of the counsel advanced to understand clearly the matters in dispute and decide as to the propriety of the action of the Legislature. It matters also, however, that these acts, have in protect the rights of the people and taxpayers according to the advice of some of the ablest lawyers in the country, who are withdrawn, according to the proposition of the railroad attorneys, and the end sought is precisely that indicated by the Union Pacific. It can hardly be equally satisfactory to the people. Should the case in any stage of the proceedings the people might have temporary relief from rights by an "equitable adjustment," or a "compromise" such as the State of Kansas has just made with the Union Pacific.

Canada was either right or wrong in legislating the corporations into against the Union Pacific, and the right is enough with the authorities thereby, and the people of the other. The last compromise is gain and nothing to lose by having there seem to exist, for in every event it has the interest of the State to have the disputed questions definitely settled at the earliest possible day. Indirectness and other shady compromise or which dark difficulties, but when the State seems compelled it should resort straight a compromise of its account with anything less than the full justice of the matter. To this case Kansas began to (Kansas) and attempt the proceedings necessary to institute her proceedings collector to, and now consents to let "equities of redemption" that cover the Union Pacific (unlimited?) that cover the Union Pacific (unlimited?) that cover the Union Pacific (unlimited?)

The Wright Suit.

Washington, D. C., March 1.—(Special.)—An extension has been granted by the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia in the case of the Wright Brothers of Dayton, O., against the Herring-Curtiss Company, which was argued before the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia on the 10th inst. The case involves the validity of the patent granted to the Wright Brothers for their flying machine. The Wright Brothers claim that the Herring-Curtiss Company has infringed upon their patent. The case will be argued before the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia on the 10th inst.

THE CITY.

PERSONAL.

Henry F. Parker of Cardiff, Eng., is at the Palmer.

William Paterson of Boston, Mass., and P. B. Sommers of St. Paul, Minn., are at the Sherman.

The Hon. T. De Witt Talmage, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Judge P. H. Carrington, Toledo, O.; and Col. S. S. Green, Lexington, Ky., are at the Pacific.

IN GENERAL.

Mr. D. F. Steele and Mr. Edwin Perry constituted the normal yesterday at the Board of Education.

The Gospel Union met yesterday afternoon at No. 1515 South Halsted street, but transacted nothing but routine business.

The Irish-American Club completed its arrangements for the St. Patrick's Day banquet yesterday. The entertainment, it is thought, will be the best in the history of the club.

The Veteran Club of the Eighteenth Illinois Infantry met at No. 100 Randolph street yesterday afternoon to complete the programme and perfect arrangements for their reunion at Trade Unions Library Hall March 21.

President Erskine M. Phelps, J. W. Doak and A. F. Gerhardt of the Iroquois Club left Washington for New York and Boston Saturday. Mr. Gerhardt will return to this city on account of business, Mr. Doak will remain some time during the week, and Mr. Phelps will remain in the East for some days.

Maj. D. P. Yohe of Salem "I" Sons of Veterans is also for the best-ordered parade of the attendant corps and is competing for their elegant medal to be given for the prize. The judges will be three prominent officers. The drill must have been arranged in advance of the parade, different movements from the basic drill, and will give the contestants plenty of hard work.

Bridesburg Assembly, No. 1,771, Knights of Labor, will be organized at No. 103 South Halsted street. It was expected that the preliminary meeting for the organization would be held last night, but the attendance was very small. Only an informal discussion of the matter took place, and it was decided that a committee should be appointed to solicit members. The committee will report at a meeting to be held at the same place next Monday night, when it is expected that the assembly will be organized by the election of officers.

The Ashlar Corps of Associates held their regular weekly meeting over No. 204 Madison street yesterday afternoon. A paper on "The Doctrines of Wealth" was read, and the most lively debate followed. A number of the members volunteered to read a paper at the meetings of Monday, the subject to be chosen by the reader. The next meeting will be held at 2:30 o'clock next Sunday afternoon, when a paper will be read by Mrs. Dr. Hall on "Ancient Egypt." All members are requested to be present.

There was a meeting Saturday evening of the men of Chicagoland, at the Ada Street Church, for the purpose of organizing a society to be called the Chicagoland Men's Christian Association. Twenty-three men volunteered their services, and the meeting was then adjourned until Saturday evening next, when a draft of a constitution, and by-laws and permanent organization will be effected. The object of the association is to bring into co-operation in the promotion of the Master's cause all the men of the city who are willing to work for Christ. Members from all parts of the city will be solicited, and it is hoped that a large number will be present next Saturday evening.

The Democratic Committee of Cook County met yesterday afternoon at the Palmer House, and decided to call the primaries for the election of delegates to the State Convention for the 21st inst. The primaries will be held between the hours of 5 and 8 p. m., and the Convention will meet at 10 a. m. on the 24th inst. The basis of representation will be one delegate for every 100 votes cast for Governor Hamilton in 1884, and one for a fraction of 50 votes. The Committee on Credentials will meet at the Palmer House at 9 a. m. on the day of the Convention
